May 29, 2020

Dear Patients,

Effective May 23, 2020, I am planning to retire from the practice of medicine after 39 years. It is with mixed emotions. I have greatly valued our time together. You have enriched my life and I am honored to be able to serve your medical needs over the years. I treasure the lessons you taught me and experienced your joy and sorrow. I have cherished my career as a physician and continuous educational renewal that comes with this profession. I have realized I can't sustain this demanding career forever and am now preparing for retirement.

My partners, Edith Lovegren, M.D. and David Bolshoun, M.D. and our new nurse practitioner, Jennifer Dahl-Iglehart remain to serve your medical needs. My partners are ready to continue your medical care with the same concern that I have given you. On the back of this page is a brief summary of my partners biographical information. Your records will remain in our office on 6311 E 14th Ave, in Denver.

Again, I have greatly appreciated our time together and look forward to this new chapter of my life.

Warmest regards,

Larry Plunkett M.D.
Larry M. Plunkett, M.D.

Dr. Lovegren is board certified in Internal Medicine, and has practiced in Denver since 1993. She earned her baccalaureate of science from Furman University in South Carolina, then continued her education by earning a doctorate in biochemistry, and finally a medical degree from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee. Her residency training was through University of Colorado Hospital in Denver, Colorado. She liked Colorado so much, she decided to stay; she joined Mayfair Internal Medicine in 1995.

She states, "My favorite part of medicine is the one-on-one interaction with my patients. I listen for their concerns, and try to incorporate teaching into my time with patients, so they can better manage their medical conditions."

In her free time, she enjoys snowshoeing, singing in a choir, and practicing Tai Chi.

Dr. Bolshoun is board certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine since 1999 and has practiced in Denver since 2000. He joined Mayfair Internal Medicine in 2002 and has been an active member of Rose Medical Center throughout his time in Denver.

Dr. Bolshoun states that, "Meeting one-on-one with patients is my greatest professional joy. The human connection is really the most important part of medical care." Mayfair Internal Medicine takes great care to try to schedule sufficient time to truly listen and understand their patients' concerns.

Dr. Bolshoun was born and raised in Denver and received his Baccalaureate degree from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. He attended medical school at the University of Colorado School of Medicine and then completed his internship and residency in Internal Medicine at the University of Utah Health Sciences Center. "Despite all the traveling for school, Colorado has always been home for me," he states.

With his spare time, Dr. Bolshoun enjoys being with his two daughters and hiking.

Jennifer Dahl-Iglehart attended Regis University, where she obtained her Bachelors of Science in Nursing with honors in 2008. She had the privilege of working at two of Denver's level 1 trauma centers for 12 years, with the last 9 years focusing in the critical care unit. She graduated with a Masters of Science in Nursing from Grand Canyon University in 2019 with honors and is board certified as an Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner. She is an active member of the Denver chapter of American Association of Critical Care Nurses (AACN) and American Association of Nurse Practitioners (AANP). She enjoys spending her free time with her husband and their dog, spending time outside gardening, and being with family.
